UK Outlook for Friday 2 Apr 2021 to Friday 16 Apr 2021:
Going into April, settled conditions are likely to continue in southern and eastern areas, where a good deal of dry and bright weather will occur. The weather in the northwest will be changeable and unsettled, and there is a slight possibility that some of the wet and windy weather may push southwards into central areas at times, allowing clearer but showery weather into the northwest. Conditions look to be drier than average for most. Temperatures are expected to be near to or milder than average, with any cooler interludes likely to be short-lived, and mostly in the north. With the year progressing and temperatures warming, there is an increased chance of afternoon showers, even in the settled southeast.
